

Hawkins Is City Treasurer

W. Murray Hawkins, a former city councilman, was appointed city treasurer by the Council Tuesday night to succeed Carlton Pegler, who recently retired after 44 years' service.

The appointment was vigorously protested by Mrs. Estelle Drobeck, 612 N. Auburn, who questioned Hawkins' qualifications and the legality of his appointment.

SHE SAID that Pegler had resigned April 22, and thus under the law an appointment had to be made within 30 days of that period. Otherwise, a special election should have been held.

Mayor David Wood pointed out that although Pegler's letter was received April 22, the Council did not accept his resignation until a suitable replacement had been found.

Mrs. Drobeck also stated that she has heard "via the grapevine" that Councilman Charles H. James is going to resign, and also Mayor Wood.

James reported that there is no substance to the rumor and that he has "no intention of resigning." Mayor Wood is expected either to resign or get a leave of absence to accept a temporary teaching position in an eastern university.

HAWKINS is a member of the investment firm of Koenig, Hawkins and Titus, which, incidentally, is advisor to the Pasadena Fire and Police Departments. He was a city councilman here from September, 1952, to April, 1954.

Teachers Won't Get Top Proposed Pay Increases

A survey of salaries proposed for Sierra Madre teachers under the tentative 1958-59 budget, reveals that none of the 27 present staffers will receive the $580 maximum increase possible in the suggested pay schedule.

The highest paid teacher would receive $7,280, if a proposed annual increase of $106 is approved. The lowest paid would earn $4,660, including a proposed $410 salary raise. The greatest increases would go to those now in the lowest brackets, the smallest to those now in the higher brackets.

Estimated total increase in teaching costs is $8,078 over the current salary schedule.

Meanwhile, Lowell D. Jackson, school superintendent, said the item in the budget calling for a pay increase of $580 in his salary would be deleted. He makes $11,000 annually.

City Park Improvement Is Underway

The long hidden charms of Memorial Park are once again being revealed, Sierra Madreans discovered this week.

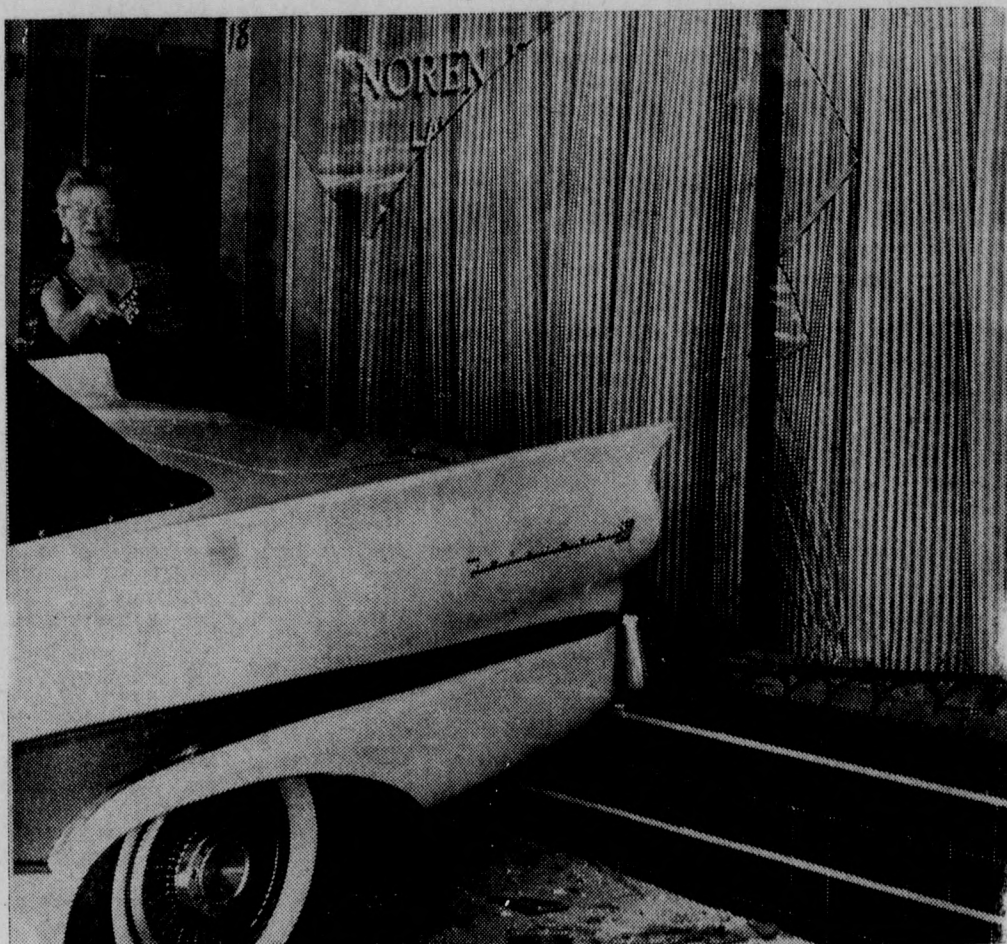

As part of an overall improvement program for the city parks, the heavily shrubbed areas at Memorial Park are being thinned to allow further planting of lawn and shade trees. The small picnic area south of the Toy Loan building will be increased by the removal of shrubs.

Additional benches will be provided, 15 of them in the amphitheater area for summer band concert audiences.

The Park House, now becoming visible, is also due for further improvement. The main room and kitchen have been painted, asphalt tile has been installed on the floors in both rooms, and a new sink and cupboards have been built.

Completion of the present plans will include re-roofing, painting the outside of the building, and remodeling the storage room.

The Parks and Recreation Commission recommended at its last meeting on May 28 that a study be made of the lighting needs in both Memorial and Sierra Vista Park.

ANOTHER RUNAWAY AUTO, an almost monthly occurrence in Sierra Madre, rolled backwards last Saturday from Kersting Ct., crossed Baldwin and smashed into the plate glass window of Noren Eaton, attorney. Owner of the car, Mrs. Evelyn Henry, 51, of 549 Gloria Rd., Arcadia, was shopping at the time. Viewing the scene is Mrs. Carmel Johnson. A few weeks ago, a car rolled into the Simpson Cleaners' window and before that another car coasted into Don Jackson's Men's Store.

She will discuss, "Books: Their Place in Our World."

Fox, Tombstone Help Liven Routine Police Week

A fox, a missing tombstone and a bit of salty repartee between a patrolman and a Sierra Madrean livened an otherwise fairly routine week in the Police Department.

Frederick Springate, 684 N. Auburn, trapped a fox in his yard. This unusual event provoked the neighborhood dogs to bark lustily, a development which, in turn, irked the neighbors.

The police were advised of the commotion and they, in turn, advised Mr. Springate on the proprieties of trapping and disposing of foxes. This happened June 6.

ON JUNE 8, the Arcadia Police Department reported they had discovered a tombstone which didn't belong in Arcadia.

Sterling Ripple, local mortician, was notified, and he traced the tombstone to an empty plot in the Sierra Madre Cemetery. Vandalism, it seems, thought the whole affair a good joke.

THE SAME week, a police patrolman, who shall remain unnamed, was driving through the canyon when he spied a small fire and a man watering some trees.

The formation of a sewer assessment district on Montecito Ave. was authorized by the City Council Tuesday night after the county health officer had declared the area a "hazard to health."

The district, if approved by the affected property owners, will extend from Baldwin down Montecito to Mt. Trail, and south on Mt. Trail to Sierra Madre Blvd. where the sewer would connect with the present trunk line.

A public hearing will be held July 8 at 8 p.m. in City Hall. If 51 per cent or more of the property owners protest, the assessment district will not be formed.

COUNTY HEALTH Officer Roy O. Gilbert, upon request of the City Council, examined the sewage problem on Montecito.

He reported that he had contacted 18 property owners, and that six of them, or 33 1/2 per cent, indicated they have trouble with their present cess pools.

Water backs up, he declared, into bathtubs and sinks, thus creating a health hazard. The industrial area of Montecito is particularly hard pressed for additional room to dig cess pools.

The motion to create the assessment district was passed by a 4 to 1 Council vote, with Councilman Charles H. James voting in opposition.

"I am not convinced," James told The Sierra Madre News, "that we have not included some residential areas which need not be in the district."

IN OTHER action, the Council listened to reports on two items concerning the Library.

The first, a letter from Mrs. Stanley Fish, Library Board secretary, urged that Board members Webster Vannier and Robert R. Dodge be re-appointed when their terms expire.

A second letter, this from Vannier, urged the Council study the needs of the Library on a long-term basis. He pointed out that the city is growing and more books and additional facilities will be needed.

"The Library Board recognizes," said Vannier's letter, "that it is a part of a community, and in that community are many people who have no use for a library, but have much use for swimming pools, ball fields and city jails. This is why we ask you to initiate a study to determine those demands, their weight and importance."

The Council referred the subject to the Planning Commission.

OTHER ITEMS covered in the agenda were:

1. The Council was advised by the Tournament of Roses Committee that the city's application to enter a float in the 1959 parade had been accepted. Councilmen will try to find a chairman to head a float committee here by the next meeting.

2. A request by Kenneth Sheets, 401 Auburn, that the dedicated city street running between Mira Monte and Olive be named, was referred.

Police Laud Girl, 12, for Dousing Fire

Police cited a 12-year-old Sierra Madre girl this week for her intelligence and ingenuity in putting out a fire in her home.

The youngster, Beverly Roane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Roane, 145 Oak Meadow Rd., called police at 5:42 p.m. last Sunday and reported a grease fire. Her parents were away at the time.

By the time the police car had arrived, Beverly had doused the fire with a carbon dioxide extinguisher. She said she had learned how to use the extinguisher in a class in school on fire prevention.

"Beverly," the police report said, "showed extreme intelligence and ingenuity."

Al Morgan To Manage Desert Bank

The appointment of Albert E. Morgan of Apple Valley to the position of manager of the new Victor Valley Branch of Security-First National Bank was announced yesterday simultaneously with the selection of Saturday, June 21, as the date for an open house celebration at Security's new building.

Morgan was manager of the Bank of Sierra Madre before it was purchased by First Western Bank & Trust Co.

Both announcements were made by Edward C. Strum, Jr., regional vice president in charge of western States, Bernardino County branches of the bank's Citizens Division.

Morgan, until now a loan officer at the bank's Apple Valley Branch, will assume his new duties shortly, and plans on coming actively into the Victorville area this month.

"We look forward to greeting all of our new neighbors and old friends during the Open House," Morgan said. "We hope you'll all do us the honor of dropping in to say 'hello,' and let my staff and I show you the new building."

He has been acting manager of the Apple Valley branch for the past two months in the absence of Gilbert C. Crouse, vice president and manager of that office who has been on vacation. Morgan's banking career began in Los Angeles in 1929.

Post Office Rate Increases Take Effect August 1

The following changes in postal rates will take effect on August 1, 1958, Post Master Charles E. Louk announced yesterday.

First class letter mail will be advanced from 3 cents per ounce to 4 cents for each ounce or fraction. Post and postal cards will go from 2 cents to 3 cents.

Domestic air mail letters will be increased from 6 cents to 7 cents and air mail post and postal cards from 4 to 5 cents.

Rates on transient second class and individual third class mail, and books, will also jump on the above date.

Other rate increases which affect bulk mailing of second and third mail have also been authorized, said Mr. Louk. These will take effect at a later date, and will be announced at the appropriate time.

Youth, 17, Hurt In Motorcycle Accident Here

A 17-year-old Sierra Madre youth sustained cuts and bruises last Friday afternoon when the motorcycle he was driving rammed a car on E. Grandview.

He is Ralph J. Steele, 385 N. Baldwin, who was treated at the Sierra Madre Medical Center and then referred to his private physician.

Police said Steele hit the car driven by Mrs. Marian M. Van Campen, 1845 Oakview Lane, Arcadia, as she was making a left turn to enter her driveway. Both vehicles were going in the same direction.

Mrs. Van Campen was not injured.

Perfect TV Reception Plan Is Outlined

A plan to insure perfect television reception from stations was presented Tuesday night at the City Council meeting.

F. C. Carpenter, an electrical engineer of 421 Grove St., proposes to erect a translator station atop 3,000-foot Mt. Bliss, behind Sierra Madre, and re-broadcast TV programs into the homes of subscribers in Sierra Madre, Monrovia and Arcadia.

VIEWERS, however, would have to have ultra high frequency adapters attached to their sets to receive the programs.

The station, Carpenter said, will cost approximately $50,000 and $10,000 a year for maintenance.

HE SAID there now are about 100 translator stations in 11 western states, the closest in Palm Springs.

Although Carpenter's plans apparently have little or nothing to do with the city government, City Attorney Charles Martin plans to meet with the engineer and discuss the proposal.

Before the plan can be carried out, however, Carpenter must be assured of enough subscribers, get permission from the television stations to re-broadcast their programs and get a license from the FCC.

Blood Groups Urged to Aid Mobile Unit

Members of Sierra Madre's Red Cross Blood Bank insurance groups are being contacted this week about the coming visit of the Bloodmobile to the Sierra Madre Woman's Clubhouse Monday, June 16.

An insurance group member performs a double service when he donates blood. He gives blood which helps others, and at the same time he protects other members of his group, as well as his own family, by establishing a "blood insurance account."

Sierra Madre has 18 blood insurance groups: Church of the Ascension Mothers' Club, St. Rita's Mothers' Club, Sierra Madre PTA, Don Benito PTA, Foothill Jewish Community Center, Masons and Eastern Star, Lions Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary, Sierra Engineering Co., Sierra Madre Community Nursery School, Kiwanis Club, Civic Club, Mariners of Bethany Church, Post Office, Trinity Presbyterian Church of Pasadena, Congregational Church.

Anyone in good health who is between the ages of 18 and 59 can donate blood next Monday at the Woman's Clubhouse from 3 to 7:30 p.m.

Individual donors provide protection for themselves and their families as well as performing a civic service in keeping the supply of blood readily available in case of emergency and for use in the manufacture of derivatives and fractions for fighting disease.

Appointments can be made by calling local Red Cross Headquarters, ELgin 5-0745.

Men of the Air Force

A jet whispered overhead, winking in the brilliant sunlight above Norton Air Force Base. It was an older jet, a trainer type capable of about 600 miles an hour, and it swept by as graceful as a soaring hawk.

On the ground a few jets and propeller driven transport planes were parked. A handful of enlisted men, mostly non-commissioned officers, were sprawled on the grass beneath two dusty trees near the runways.

Occasionally, the motors of a big transport plane coughed to life and rattled the hangar windows, but if you closed your eyes and listened, you could hear the buzz of insects.

A DECEPTIVELY lazy scene is presented to the visitor at Norton, deceptive because Norton, near San Bernardino, is of the utmost strategic importance. And, in reality, it's far from the quiet, lazy patch on the desert which is the first impression the visitor receives.

Norton is headquarters of the 27th Air Defense Command and is responsible for the air defense of a large section of the Southwest. The zone it protects stretches, roughly, from the Mexican border north to San Luis Obispo, and east to Las Vegas and Phoenix.

The air defense of the United States is vastly complicated. It's a network of radar stations, picket ships, Nike battalions, civilian watch towers, and, of course, the dramatic F-102 jet interceptors, capable of speeds nearly three times that of sound.

Every unknown flying object, including "flying saucers," that enters the territory patrolled by the 27th Division is picked up by radar, followed on a giant plotting board and intercepted and identified by jets.

THIS, BASICALLY, is our air defense—the best we have at the moment. It's not perfect and the Air Force officers know it.

Low flying planes, for example, cannot be picked up by radar. We have no defense in Mexico, and presumably enemy aircraft could sweep in over the Gulf of California, undetected until they came so close to our border that San Diego could be wiped out with one well-placed nuclear bomb.

Then there is the problem of enemy submarines that could lob atomic shells and rockets from off our coast.

But the most grim reminder that there really is little defense against war is the fact that we, as well as the Russians, presumably, have no weapons capable of dealing with intercontinental missiles.

The most we could hope for, apparently, is that the missile would miss its target.

THE PICTURE is grim, terrifying. As one Air Force colonel put it:

"In case of war, we would just be trading countries with the Russians, and the residents of Mexico could walk into the United States over the rubble."

The Air Force at Norton—the generals, colonels, captains and flying lieutenants—are serious men with deadly missions. They seem fully aware of the horrible consequences of a nuclear war.

There is no sabre-rattling, no observable pulling of rank, no Prussianism. The flying officers obviously are thrilled every time they swish through the sky in their jet birds, as well they might be. But they know what war is, particularly the ones who fought in Korea.

Their mature, intelligent attitude, it seems to me, is one of our greatest assets and may well be a more profound deterrent to war than all the jets, picket ships and Nike batteries we can muster.

BOOK LARNIN'

Dear Sir:
Just the other day, I said to Pa, "Fer gosh sakes, this here town used to be no bigger'n a pint o' cider—now it's growing faster than a cat lapping chain lightning. Reckon our country cousins will hardly know us no more. Gaul-darned, if I don't know whether to cry tears of sadness or gladness. We're gonno be so high-falutin', purty and sweet smellin', wha't with all them daisies and ptutanias hangin' out the store windows. Its only fittin' that we git ourselves some new duds (are they outlawn' bare feet thru the town?)"

Then were a'going to skeddadle ourselves right down to all the cultural goings-on the "Friends of the Library" puts on. Its a right shame, I says, iffen we all neglects this worthy organization, that has so many facets to its personality. (See how refined one can git, if one sets a mind to it.)

Furthermore it seems to me, our town should have an annual choir drive. They's always in need of nice looking voices. We could be the singest folks in the whole county; just imagine all those mighty happy angels hovering over the town on Sunday morn.

"Waal," said Pa, "I've had a hankering for one of them jazz concerts. No offense to Mr. Larson and the band, cause we're one of his best customers, now and forevermore (we even bring our own peanuts and popcorn). I get quite unwhinged with that ther classic rag time, Dixieland and Basin Street blues."

I don't mean to be a parsimonious ol' critter but I don't hold with too much Rock n' Roll. I kalkulate there's lots of young fry (30 to 80 years) who'd enjoy one of these windings.

Much obliged,
MA and PA.

$14 Billion Budget Deficit Looms in 1959

By Edgar W. Hiestand
Rep. 21st District

YOUR COUNTRY IS HAVING BUDGET TROUBLE. This should be headline in letters twice the size of those that announced Sputnik because it is 10 times as dangerous to the future of our nation.

We're having budget trouble because we're spending more than we're taking in, and the responsibility rests with Congress.

No branch of the Federal government, not even the White House, can spend money that is not first appropriated by the Congress.

THIS CONGRESS, the voice of the people, instructs the Administration on when, where and how much to spend. Federal Aid for this, that and the other project, Foreign Aid for most of the nations of the world—all of these cost money—your money. Those of us who believe in fiscal responsibility can fight with all our might to protect your tax money, but when it comes to the final decision in the House of Representatives, we simply haven't enough votes. The "spenders" are in control. We, as a nation, haven't chosen enough of the right kind of people to serve us in Congress.

Last week the House even voted to increase the appropriation for the Army by $99 million more than was requested. And my own committee, Banking & Currency, voted out a $2 billion bill to subsidize every kind of public facility you can imagine. I voted against it, but we were too few.

All of these things cost vast sums of your money.

ON THE OTHER side of the picture, the government's income is down. Corporate earnings this year may be substantially above any year other than 1957, but they have fallen from original estimates. This will be reflected in lower tax revenues for the Federal Treasury. Accordingly, it looks as though the government is going into the red by nearly $4 billion, for the fiscal year ending this June 30th.

The future is even darker. The huge expenditures being authorized by this Congress will occur in fiscal 1959. Unless we can get enough votes to cut back some of these programs, we stand to end next year with a deficit of $10 to $14 billion. This is very serious because deficit spending is highly inflationary. It's about the same as printing that much more money. Yes, we do. We owe it to the widows, the orphans, the savers of this nation, and spreading it around, increasing the demand for goods without increasing supply.

Government spending, by-and-large, produces nothing saleable. The resulting inflationary pressures push up the cost of living and increase prices to you, the wage earner, the housewife, the salaried worker, the pensioner on fixed income. Many of the latter face stark tragedy.

High prices is a political issue, but your Congress, in the main, is responsible. The big spenders are in the majority. The advocates of fiscal responsibility are now the minority.

The national debt, as of May 31, was $275,749,296.958.99. Annual interest on this staggering amount is just under $8 billion, the second largest item in your Federal budget.

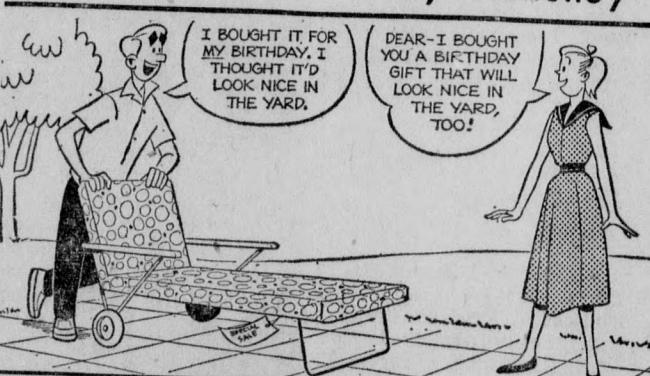

THE "SPENDERS" say, "So what? We owe it to our nation who have blind faith in the fiscal integrity of their country. We owe it to the hundred million of our people who have life insurance policies, savings accounts, government bonds; these are all investments in America and the stable dollar."

Though some of us are deeply concerned, the picture is not all blue. Congress is very sensitive to the people. I could name between 30 and 40 Members of Congress, who last year stood up and voted for economy and fiscal responsibility, who would not have done so, had they not been harassed by their constituents. In other words, if the people want economy, they can have it. They simply have to put the pressure on their congressmen.

However discouraging it may appear, in view of the madcap spending projects already passed this year, it's not too late. If the people act now, the effects will be felt. Protecting the buying power of the housewife's dollar should be the aim of every responsible citizen.

Around the Square

Settlers near the Settling Grounds—take heart! Those (particularly cooker-outers-at-night) who have feared annihilation by Anopheles mosquitoes, aren't being plagued by anything worse than Mayflies. An amateur entomologist, Margaret Anthony, took scoop net, magnifying glass and rule book, and descended upon the Spreading Grounds to study the swarms and come up with the answer: Mayflies.

These transparent winged critters have a long, slender forked tail, no mouth and no stomach. Unlike their look-alike, the mosquito, they don't dine (not even on people) and at the most, live only a day or so. (To homeowners who protest "but we've been bitten!" it's very likely that a few testy mosquitoes have infiltrated the Mayfly ranks.)

Most of the insect's life is spent in the larval stage, in the water, feasting on decaying plant life and algae. After their mouthless metamorphosis, they socialize a bit, and are greatly attracted to light—particularly patio glow. Their profusion this year is due to the unusual amount of water being spread over an unusually long period. Undoubtedly, the Mayfly menace will disappear as soon as we stop spreading water—in early July.

In the meantime, an immediate solution: Stock the basins with trout, since trout adore Mayflies. Then stock the grounds with fishermen.

How about it? (Editor's note: Unfortunately the spreading ponds dry up in the summer.)

Colleges Not Crowded, Need Students

By Robert G. Spivack

WASHINGTON
THE COLLEGES' LAMENT
—One of the many great myths being fed the American public by misinformed "experts" who grace the education pages of some of our largest dailies is the notion that our colleges and universities are overcrowded.

There will appear in the early fall some scholarly studies of the plight of the American college which will seek to correct this notion. I don't want to take the edge off these learned papers by disclosing in advance the detailed and factual basis for their conclusion that colleges are not overcrowded. But since the conclusions are already becoming known in some circles I see no point in holding them back from newspaper readers.

The plain fact is, I am told by some educators in a position to know, that instead of being overcrowded many colleges and universities are finding themselves short of students. The result is financial strain for already overstrained college budgets.

WHAT CAUSES the difficulty is this:

High school students now apply for admission to half dozen colleges, instead of one or two as they used to do. They do it in the belief that their chances of admission are small.

What they often find out, though, is that they are admitted to several schools for which they have made application. The student then chooses the school he would prefer to enter. But the other schools are left high and dry. There is no time left for them to go out hunting for students as football coaches might seek halfbacks.

There is, of course, an overcrowded condition in some colleges. Schools such as Harvard, Yale, Princeton and a handful of women's colleges on the East Coast always have more applicants than they have openings. But that was true 20 years ago and even earlier. On the other hand, there are dozens of good small schools around the country which are filled to nowhere near capacity.

STUDY NOW, PAY LATER

—Back at the time Sputnik I was launched there was a great flurry over the plight of U.S. education. There was all kinds of talk about increasing federal aid, about school construction bills and better teacher training programs. After the initial excitement it seems that we have now reverted to our old, lackadaisical approach and very little is being done for higher or lower education.

But the colleges themselves because of their financial troubles have decided to employ a new approach to at least one phase of education. They are beginning to cut down on free scholarships. Instead they are making long-term loans to students.

Some educators don't like it, but many do. There seem to be good sound reasons for this new departure.

UNLESS A COLLEGE or university had vast endowments to support a scholarship program the money would come out of other things. Frequently it came from money that might have gone into new libraries, new laboratories or new plant and equipment.

But most of all it came from the salaries of the college professors. A big reason in some schools for low faculty pay was that so much of the college's cash was going to the scholarships fund. Many college professors were willing to let this happen in order to get the best and most promising students into their institutions. But when the cost of living continued to climb and reached its present virtually out-of-bounds limit the college teachers discovered they could not pay the price.

In some schools as many as 30 per cent of the student body were there on scholarships. In these same schools professors' salaries were still back at the levels of the 'mid-40s. So now the colleges are trying this new way of meeting costs, hopeful that their graduates will remember to pay back old Alma Mater.

FOREIGN AID TRAVESTY

—Can someone please tell us why the Dominican government of Dictator Trujillo needs $600,000 a year in U.S. aid? By odd coincidence this happens also to be the allowance the Dictator gives his playboy son, who is "chief" of his father's air force. That's six times the salary of the President of the United States. Kim and Zsa Zsa can't be that expensive.

Soup to Nonsense . . .

Three Meals Plus The Ladies

By Jane Goodsell

My life revolves around food. Food dominates my existence and punctuates my days. In one way or another, I am constantly coping with it. If I am not cooking, I am marketing or putting away groceries or looking up recipes or cleaning up the kitchen or vacuuming the dining room carpet or sweeping the kitchen floor.

Even my thoughts center on food. Remember to buy rolled oats. Don't forget to make French dressing. We're almost out of butter.

There are decisions to make. Do I dare put sour cream in the gravy? Is it worth buying ground round instead of hamburger for the meat loaf? This jar of peanut butter or that one? Pumpkin pie or rye bread? Oatmeal cookies or brownies?

MAYBE THEY aren't very big decisions. But they are decisions, and I must make up my mind, one way or the other.

Food is complicated. Women, because they do the cooking, like it fancy. When women get together for luncheon, they serve each other Dishes. They do it so that they can ask each other for recipes. A Dish involves a number of ingredients, imaginatively combined, such as tuna fish, black cherries, noodles, whole kernel corn and peanuts, combined in a cheese sauce.

The less likely the combination, the more imaginative the Dish. Never mind what it tastes like. Imagination is what counts! Dishes are often called Medleys or Surprises. By other women, that is. Men call them by other names, mostly unprintable. Anybody crazy enough to serve a Dish to a child deserves what happens next, and what happens next will be plenty.

MEN, ON the other hand, like Food. Food means that everything is cooked separately, and no fancy creative impulses. Food is roast beef and browned potatoes, steak and hash browns, pot roast and potato pancakes. Cooked exactly the same way, time after time after time.

Food is more expensive, less fun and more difficult to prepare than Dishes. Nobody knows exactly what Cheese Surprise is supposed to taste like, and a misstep or two goes unnoticed. Any clod can tell if the roast beef is overcooked and the potatoes underdone.

Men irritate their wives by insisting that nobody could be easier to cook for than they are. All they want is good, plain, down-to-earth food.

CHILDREN like hot dogs, hamburgers, spaghetti and anything on a stick. Children are always hungry except when they are seated around a dining table, which causes them to lose their appetites. They prefer to eat standing up or on the move or sprawled in front of a television set. Best of all, they like to procure their food at drugstores or hotdog stands, where they can actually see money changing hands.

Very small children like to eat anything that is lying on the floor or in the gutter. Dogs prefer to eat in the dining room with the family, and will eat anything that is not served to them in the dog dish.—(Reprinted from The Guild Reporter.)

Around and About . . .

Old Spadaro Known in Song and Story

By Edward Lloyd Voorhees

Old Spadaro was not given to talking when he was walking about the Piazza in Capri, standing to pose for the cameras of tourists, or just sitting on the wall looking out at sea.

Although his face and figure had for a quarter of a century been better known, the world over, in photographs on color postcards, and paintings, than any other in Capri, even la bella Carmelina, there was no hint in Spadaro's manner that he had been spoiled by all this publicity. In passing near him, during a month's visit, I occasionally saluted him, and he returned the gesture with dignified courtesy.

ONE DAY, as he sat alone in a sunny corner remotely apart from the crowd, I stopped to chat with him. I found on a month's tour of the Pacific before he finally was dropped on the Navarro. The Ascher seamen (Charlie will end his 3-year hitch in October) are enroute to Okinawa via Eniwitok.

HAPPY FATHER'S DAY—especially to the father who took his young son frog hunting the other day and returned with dozens of inch-long Spring Peepers. He casually left the unladen jar full of frogs within reach of his little daughter, who liberated the hoppers indoors.

A subsequent wild scramble failed to yield but a fraction of the original number of captive frogs leaving the missing ones to mature and propagate with gusto—probably under the piano.

him a genial old fellow, smiling and gentle in his manner, soft-voiced in speaking.

I asked him if it were true, as I had heard, that he used to climb up the steep Faraglioni, down below, yonder to catch the blue lizards for the museums.

"Si, Signore," he replied, smiling, "ma tanti anni fa, quando sono giovane." (Yes, sir, but many years ago, when I was a young man.) "And before that?" I asked. "Sono stato pescatore, Signore." (I was a fisherman.) "And was it ever as exciting as catching the blue lizards on the tall rocks straight up from the sea?" I asked, always in my halting, imperfect Italian, which, cleverly, he managed to understand.

He thought for a moment, then answered: "Si, Signore, una volta." (Yes . . . one time.) "Prego me dica, I said, (I pray you, tell me.)

THEN HE gave me a quiet but vivid account of how one very dark night he had gone out alone in his fishing boat with the torch to catch the fish attracted by the light, and a big off-shore wind came up and carried him out and out, against all his strength with the oars, until he could no longer see the shore lights nor any land anywhere . . . "out toward Africa."

But at dawn—grazio Dio!—the wind had grown tired, and so by rowing all day he had reached home just before sunset—so exhausted that he fell across his bed, asleep.

"It was very lonely out there, Signore, in the wind and the dark."

Both old Spadaro and la bella Carmelina, with her songs, her folk tales, her tambourine and her fiery tarantella, have long ago been gathered into folk history stories.

THE CURIO and gift shops in the Piazza and along the colorful Via Tragara, in 1926, carried their likenesses by hundreds in black and white, in colors on picture postcards, in sea shells, in framed portraits, and in easel paintings. By March of 1956, there was displayed not one remaining specimen to these searching eyes. Sic transit gloria! But who can tell the vast number that are scattered over the globe, in souvenir albums, in museums, in bureau drawers, in old curiosity shops—and rummage sales?

And now, both Carmelina and Spadaro are safe as legendary figures, lengthening with the years, to appear and reappear, in song and story, and in the footnotes, at least, of the history of Capri.

COMMENCEMENT

Degrees will be conferred on more than 300 students of the California Institute of Technology at its 64th annual commencement Friday afternoon, June 13, with Dr. Detlev W. Breck, president of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research and president of the National Academy of Sciences, as the featured speaker. The subject of his address will be "The Challenge of Change."

'Knowing Jesus' Is Theme Of Lutheran Bible School

"Knowing Jesus" will be the theme of the Daily Vacation Bible School at Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church, according to the Rev. Ray E. Hansen, pastor.

The school will be offered to all children and young people from the ages 1 through 12 in the Upper Room, 270 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. Dates for the school, which covers nine days of morning sessions from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., are Monday through Friday, June 23 through 27, and Monday through Friday, June 30 through July 3.

There is no charge for the school, the pastor emphasized. A free will offering will be taken daily to help pay for the teaching materials and rental of the Upper Room.

"WE WANT all the young ones to get to know Jesus," Pastor Hansen said. "We have outstanding materials and trained teachers, two for each class. The classes are divided by age groups and will be kept small so that we can give a maximum of individual attention to the child."

The nursery class will learn about "Jesus and the Little Children." Kindergarten will hear "Stories of Jesus." Children of primary age will learn "Loving Jesus." Theme of the junior class will be "Following Jesus."

In addition to the teaching periods, which will be the main portion of each morning session, there will be singing of favorite hymns and Sunday School songs, morning prayers, a play recess and refreshments.

Mothers desiring to enroll their children are asked to phone the parsonage, ELgin 5-3701, so that classes may be arranged. Parents will be guests on the final day of the school, July 3, when certificates will be presented and work of the children displayed in an open house.

"OUR SCHOOL is open to all children," the pastor said. "We especially invite all youngsters who are not now enrolled in a Sunday school. This is a great opportunity for all to know Jesus."

Fellowship Group Holds Annual Installation Rites

"With this tiny mirror, you will see yourself as a success, we trust, in all that you undertake in your new office," said Rev. George W. Lindsay, pastor of the First Congregational Church last Tuesday evening.

This was Mr. Lindsay's unique method of welcoming each new officer at the annual installation ceremony of the Women's Fellowship of this church.

Each mirror presented by him was received as given, in fun and in earnest by the incoming officers in the five active women's organizations of the church.

These five groups are (1) the Consensus, devoted to many projects, including the Youth Choir; (2) the Phoenix, mothers of school children now working on the vacation church school; (3) the Friendly Sewing Group, women who make garments and other items for the church, the American Indian Service, Red Cross and mission hospitals; (4) the Study Group, women interested in the study of a subject chosen by the Council of Churches; and (5) the Women's Fellowship, coordinator of all the groups.

Mrs. Martin Olson and Mrs. Clinton Symonds served refreshments, including strawberry shortcake.

Religious Science To Observe Father's Day

The Santa Anita Church of Religious Science, 778 S. Rosemead Blvd., will observe Father's Day, Sunday, June 15 at the duplicate worship services, 9:15 and 11 a.m.

Dr. Ethel Barnhart will discuss "Inspiration" and the importance in the world today of recognizing the Fatherhood of God as the Fatherhood of man. The Religious Science baptismal service for Lisa Dinsmoor will be performed by Dr. Barnhart.

Junior Church, graded classes for pre-school through junior high, convenes at 9:15 and 11 a.m. Youth Fellowship, activity for high school and college age, meet at 7:30 p.m. Sunday evening.

Dr. Gene Emmett Clark, minister of the Beverly Hills Church of Religious Science, will speak on "Unfolding Your Highest Self" at the second meeting of the newly formed men's organization, Tuesday, June 17, at 8 p.m. Approximately 50 men attended the first meeting.

Children's Day Planned This Sunday

Children's Day will be observed this Sunday at the Congregational Church.

At 9:30 a.m. children from all departments will gather in the Sanctuary, together with their parents. The classes will present the program, and Milton Emerson, outgoing Church School superintendent, will present diplomas to each of the graduating pupils.

The Chapel Choir, under the direction of Cathy Franco, will sing, and the Rev. George Lindsay will present a story sermon. The program has been arranged by Mrs. Edward Verreaux, the new superintendent of the Church School.

REV. WALDO S. RICHARDS, minister of the Encanto Community Church in Phoenix, will be the guest preacher at the Congregational Church this Sunday.

Rev. Richards will preach on the theme "Important to Whom?" As part of the service, Rev. George W. Lindsay will express the appreciation of the congregation, and present certificates of merit to the Church School staff of the past year.

Report on Church Visits

With the parish emphasis during June upon "A Christian Vacation," the Planning Council of the Faith Lutheran Church, 835 Hastings Ranch Dr., is providing to members and friends information about church locations in various cities and the time of their services.

The aim is to encourage everyone to attend church during vacation and the summer months. Vacationing members of the congregation have also been requested to bring back with them the church bulletins from the churches they visit. This collection will be posted in the church narthex on Sunday, Sept. 28.

Rev. A. Hesse of Faith Lutheran also announced that the annual Children's Vacation Bible School will be from June 23 to July 3, from 9 to 11:30 each school day morning. Enrollment cards have been mailed to all pupils of the Sunday School this week.

Non-pupils will be eligible to attend, providing they are six years of age and do not attend a Sunday School. "These limitations are necessary," declared Rev. Hesse "because space limitations do not permit the enrollment of any and all children."

The Vacation Bible School Staff will meet at 7 o'clock on Thursday evening, June 19. The Men's Club of the congregation will meet next Tuesday evening, with volleyball scheduled from 7 to 8, followed by the meeting and religious topic discussion.

Mrs. Emerson F. Stoops

Ludmilla Pereselenko Weds Emerson F. Stoops June 6

Ludmilla Pereselenko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vasily Lessenevitch, 80 W. Grandview, exchanged nuptial vows with Emerson F. Stoops, son of Dr. and Mrs. Emery Stoops of West Los Angeles, in a double ring ceremony June 6 in Holy Virgin Mary Greek Orthodox Church, Hollywood. Father Dimitry Gizette officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a white silk taffeta gown fashioned with a fitted bodice and full bouffant skirt which fell into a chapel train. Her elbow length French illusion veil was caught by a coronet of fresh flowers. She carried a bouquet of white and pink orchids.

The maid-of-honor, Eileen Carol Stoops, sister of the groom, wore a light mint green taffeta frock and carried a bouquet of deep red carnations.

The bridesmaids, Brenda K. Johnson, Enid Cheavens and Barbara Presco, were attired in peppermint green taffeta dresses and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Nicholas (Nick) Lessenevitch, brother of the bride, carried the Ikona, picture of Christ.

Donald L. Bilbrey was best man and the guests were seated by Claus Becker.

Clark Venable and Kenneth L. Chotiner.

A reception for more than 200 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony.

The bride attended Sierra Madre Elementary School and Pasadena High School. She is presently at the University of California at Los Angeles and will begin her junior year next September.

The groom received his bachelor's degree from UCLA's school of engineering last February and is now working toward his masters. Following a honeymoon at an undisclosed destination, the newly married couple will make their home in Santa Monica.

Teachers Club Here Cited as Among Best

The Sierra Madre Teachers Club, which recently selected new officers, has been cited as one of the best clubs in California, it was announced yesterday.

The functioning of the club has been lauded by the California Teachers Association, and the organization has been the subject of articles in the CTA magazine and other pamphlets of interest to teachers.

The club was organized in 1936 to promote intra-teacher relationships as well as parent-teacher and teacher community relationships.

At first, the school administration felt the club should be a classroom teachers organization and declined the offer of membership. Since that time, however, the CTA has recommended that this policy be changed to include administrators, a step taken by the club this year.

Arcadia Church To Give Awards For Year Sunday

Next Sunday, the second after Trinity, will end the spring term of the Church School at the Episcopal Church of the Transfiguration.

At the Family Eucharist, 9:15 a.m., Father Ewan, rector of the parish, will announce awards for the year. The cross and crown awards are given to boys and girls of the Church School for perfect attendance during the year.

Following the Eucharist and the announcing of awards, the congregation will go to the parish hall where the Woman's Auxiliary will give a coffee hour in honor of the officers, teachers, and assistant teachers of the Church School.

Other services next Sunday will be a celebration of the Holy Eucharist at 8 a.m. and the Choral Eucharist and sermon at 11 a.m. This will be the last Sunday of the regular service schedule.

Beginning Sunday, June 22, the summer schedule will go into effect—Holy Eucharist at 8 a.m. and Choral Service and sermon at 10 a.m.

The Church School will hold classes for pre-school children at 10 a.m. Grade pupils will come to church with their parents and will see the movie, in color, "The Living Christ."

Shepherd of the Hills

United Lutheran Church, Upper Room, 270 W. S. M. Bl.
"For the Lord will be your confidence and will keep your foot from being caught." Read Proverbs 3:21-26.

WITHOUT CONFIDENCE man is lost. How true this is in business. Without confidence in his associates and customers, a man would be smothered in worrisome details. He must trust others to help him. Lack of confidence in others can shackle a man into uselessness.

A CHRISTIAN has confidence in God as his co-worker and helper. What encouragement it is to know that Almighty God is for us! Our confidence must not be SELF-confidence, however. Morrison, the great pioneer missionary to China, was asked, "Do you really expect to make an impression on the vast Chinese Empire?" His grand reply: "No, but I know that God will!" SUCH must be our confidence in God. He assures us that He will never let us down if we trust in Him!

TODAY'S PRAYER—God, we thank Thee that we can place our complete trust in Thee, that Thou dost not forsake any who come to Thee. Keep us strong and encouraged in this faith. Amen.

—The Rev. Ray E. Hansen.

Garden Notes . . .

Fresh Herbs for Your Barbecue? Grow Your Own

There's no getting around it. Half the fun of cooking outdoors lies in the tantalizing smell of things: charcoal fire and broiling meat, even the pungent smell of a new-cut lawn or a freshly watered flower bed.

Add to these the smell of garden-fresh herbs and you make any barbecue more fun than it already is.

A few bay leaves tossed on the coals add their subtle aroma to the broiling meat; a sprig of mint makes any iced drink more thirst quenching; crushed oregano, marjoram, parsley or thyme add the right touch to a basting sauce; and garlic, pulled fresh from the ground, has a full, succulent flavor not found in the drying store product.

IF YOU USE dried herbs only, you miss the best part. Except for bay, tarragon and sweet basil, most herbs undergo subtle changes or loss of flavor when they are dried.

There's no trick to having fresh herbs right at hand for your barbecue. According to the California Association of Nurserymen, many herbs can be grown easily from seed, and those that can't are usually obtainable as small plants at your neighborhood nursery.

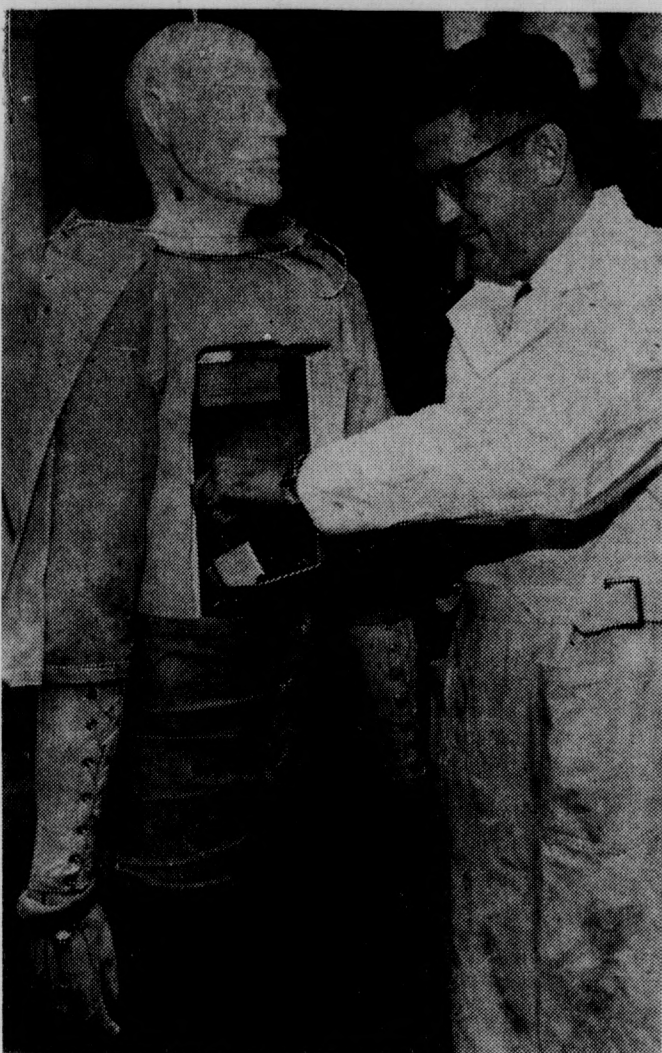

If you are cramped for space—a two by four foot area is really all you need—try a portable herb garden. Most herbs do well in pots and this way can be moved in next to the brazier whenever you fire it up.

As a general rule, the annual herbs such as basil, parsley, chives and summer savory do well from seed. They are often obtainable in pots, however, and will save you time and trouble that way. The perennials, thyme, sage, tarragon, rosemary, marjoram and oregano are more easily started from root cuttings, divisions or—most simply—from small nursery plants.

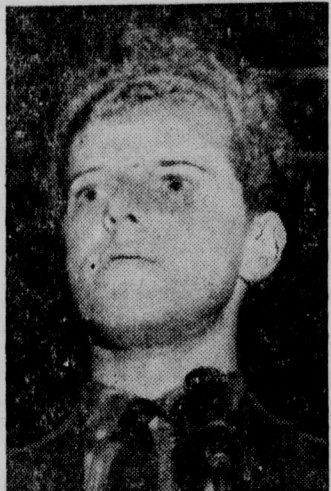

One of the nice things about herbs is that a little will go a long way. One plant or pot of any of the perennials will keep the average family in good supply. A border of parsley will give you enough to keep the neighbors happy. And half a dozen plants of basil yield a summer supply with some to spare.

HERBS GROW in most any soil, but if it's neutral or on the alkaline side, and well drained, they will thrive. Give them plenty of sun and water, but beware of wet feet. Break up heavy soil with a shovel or two of gravel and sand and plenty of steer manure to insure good drainage. Keep the fast growers in bonds by heavy pruning when necessary.

Don't overlook the decorative possibilities of herbs. Ask your nurseryman about the low-growing thymes for a ground cover. Sage can be made to spill attractively

"SIERRA SAM" is shown with H. L. Daulton, vice president and general manager of Sierra Engineering Co., Sierra Madre, in a scene from the TV show, "You Asked for It," which will appear on Channel 7, KABC, Hollywood, at 7 p.m., Sunday, June 15. "Sierra Sam" has gained wide popularity as a professional accident victim. He is not just a dummy, but a synthetic man created for the sole purpose of saving human lives. He serves as a human stand-in for automobile crashes, bomb explosions and supersonic Air Force seat ejections. Sierra Engineering Co. has become one of the outstanding firms in the country for the development of unique oxygen breathing systems, anesthesia and medical equipment, and other life-saving devices. "Sierra Sam" will be on display at the Community Breakfast Saturday in the City Park.

Mouth-to-Mouth Artificial Respiration Is Best Method

(Presented as a public service by the Foothill District of the Los Angeles County Medical Association)

The "Biblical method" of artificial respiration, mouth-to-mouth breathing, has been found to be superior to manual techniques in all age groups, and particularly children.

According to a research team whose findings were recently published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the oldest known resuscitation technique is the only one which assures that an adequate volume of air will enter the victim's lungs.

The researchers joined in a statement of principles, which follows:

1. Because resuscitation with expired-air inflation (a general term for mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and its variants) is simple and effective, it is easily learned and adaptable to many resuscitation problems. (Ninety per cent of 164 untrained rescuers used the method satisfactorily after one demonstration.)

2. Rescuers can maintain mouth-to-mouth breathing for an hour or more without fatigue.

3. Obstruction of the airway above the larynx is the most common cause of failure of any artificial respiration method. But in expired-air breathing, this type of obstruction is prevented because the hands are free to keep the jaw slightly raised and the mouth open.

BRIEFLY, the steps in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation in infants are:

1. Clear the mouth of any foreign matter with the middle finger of one hand. With the same finger hold the tongue forward.

2. Now place the child in a face-down, head-down position and pat him firmly on the back with the free hand. This should help dislodge any foreign object in the air passage.

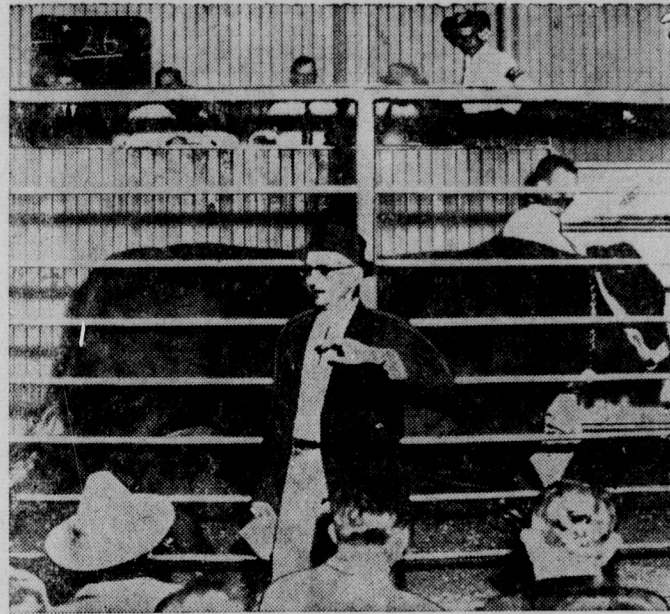

3. Place the child on his back and use the middle fingers of both hands to lift the lower jaw from beneath and behind so that it "juts out."

4. Hold the jaw in the position described in Step 3, using one hand only.

5. Place your mouth over the child's mouth and nose, making a relatively leak-proof seal, and breathe into the child with a smooth, steady action until you observe the chest rise. As you start this action, move your free hand to the child's abdomen, between the navel and the ribs, and apply continuous moderate pressure to prevent the stomach from becoming filled with air.

6. When the lungs have been inflated, remove your lips from the child's mouth and nose and allow the lungs to empty. Repeat this cycle at a rate of about 20 times a minute. After every 20 cycles you should rest long enough to take one deep breath. If at any time you feel resistance to your breathing into the child and the chest does not rise, repeat Step 2 and quickly resume mouth-to-mouth breathing.

Senators Whip Giants in Best Game of Season

SENATORS 3—GIANTS 2
This battle between the two teams leading the Babe Ruth League was perhaps the best game played this season.

Although the Giant's Ray Dahlgren struck out 18 Senators and allowed but three hits, the Senators brought home the bacon by bunting two hits and capitalizing on three Giant errors in the 4th inning to score all their runs.

Miller, first Senator up in the 4th, singled, followed by Alexander, the winning pitcher, who walked. Cason was safe on an error and Miller scored on an error. Then Sain doubled, driving Alexander and Cason home.

The Giants scored one run in the 5th when Sherk, who singled, was driven home by Ray Dahlgren's drive past short. They got one more run in the 6th when Simon, the first of seven men up, walked, Jones singled, Foxton walked, Rickard singled scoring Simon, but they couldn't pull the game out as the Senator's Alexander picked one runner off second, forced McWade to fly out, and Ray Dahlgren to ground out.

WITH THE LITTLE LEAGUE season heading toward its close next week, the Orioles still lead the league, largely due to their 5-3 victory over the Yankees who are pushing them hard. The Braves, a much rejuvenated team, managed by John Englert and Guy Rossi, came out of their losing streak to win both games last week, one of their victims being the Orioles no less!

The Indians went into a losing streak, dropping three straight, which puts them in the cellar. The Red Sox, piloted by Walter Milford and Norman Dumas, seem to gain strength as they go and are worth watching. With a little luck they could easily take one of the two top spots in the league.

BRVES 9—ORIOLES 7
THE BRVES got started their second time up, scoring three runs when Nysether walked, Snow hit one to second but an error left all safe. Rossi singled, scoring Nysether and Snow, and he scored on Richter's drive to second.

They scored two more in the 4th on Bonney's drive to center-field, and four runs in the 5th on four walks plus a double by Richter and singles by John Englert and Bonney.

The Orioles didn't get in the game until their last time up, scoring six times, which nearly sunk the Braves. Chavarria and Hubick led off with singles, Hubick and Sabado walked, Lowe and Matheson hit through second, and the Braves' seven errors in this inning nearly cost them the game.

Smog Convictions, Guilty Pleas Double in May

Smog law convictions and guilty pleas during May in the County Municipal Courts were more than double those of the same month last year, Control Officer Smith Griswold reported yesterday.

Fines totaling $8,874 were paid last month by 363 individuals and firms for violations of air pollution laws, while $5,955 was collected by the courts during May last year from 173 smog-law violators, Griswold pointed out.

The enforcement division issued 336 written notices of violations and 330 court cases were filed as a result, during the month. There were 914 cases pending in court as the present month began.

Only 17 appeals were filed with the Hearing Board during May this year, compared to 24 a year ago. The Board completed eight cases last month, granting seven variances to permit construction of control equipment, while one petition was withdrawn. During May, 1957, 11 variances were granted.

Plenty of Signatures, Say 'Right-to-Work' Backers

Committee workers backing the Employer-Employee Relations initiative reported that petitions filed yesterday contained ample valid signatures to qualify the measure for the November ballot.

Final filing of petitions by the "Citizens' Committee for Democracy in Labor Unions" started today in nearly all California counties, although the ultimate deadline is still two weeks away.

"We're solidly over the top, with thousands of valid signatures to spare," said August Sommerfeld, California Coordinator for the CCCLU, which was formed to sponsor the initiative.

Petitions containing approximately 250,000 signatures were being deposited with registrars of voters in the 53 counties of the state. This will make a gross statewide filing of more than 550,000 signatures, counting the almost 300,000 filed in April.

"This initiative won the support of a responsible, thoughtful citizenry from one end of the state to the other," said Howard B. Wyatt, executive secretary of CCCLU.

Bonelli Attends First Session as New Supervisor

Frank G. Bonelli, Huntington Park legislator and businessman, attended his first session on the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors yesterday after his election and appointment to the county-wide governing body last week.

In a flower-bedecked hearing room crowded with friends and well-wishers, Bonelli was given a standing ovation as he was welcomed by his fellow supervisors, county department heads, mayors and councilmen of several cities of the first supervisorial district and others.

With him to share the honors were members of his family, his wife, Mrs. Muriel Bonelli, two daughters, Mrs. Cusolito and Mrs. Barbara Macke; their husbands, Arthur Cusolito and Michael Macke, and the new supervisor's three brothers, George, Ray and Joe. Also attending were Mrs. Ray Bonelli and Mrs. George Bonelli.

Bonelli, in assuming his new duties on the board, acknowledged the wide support he received and paid tribute to the late Supervisor Herbert C. Legg.

The Council asked Sheets to contact his neighbors, agree to a name for the street and present the request to the Planning Commission.

The County Board of Supervisors advised the Council that Sierra Madre would not longer receive a subsidy for recreation.

The subsidy, in the past, has amounted to $750 a year, and was based on the average daily attendance of school children here who use playground facilities. The subsidy was stopped as an economy measure.

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—City of Hope, Boulevard of Broken Dreams. For those intending to go up and break the bank soon, rest at ease, it is still there.

What a fabulous city! Magnificent clubs that could be equalled by no place in Hollywood. The new blended with the old in such a manner you are hardly aware of the transition.

I call it a city of dead eyes. It is rare to see honest animation. You face people with a lost, anguished look about them, knowing full well that they have gone in over their heads, or a guarded look of the hopeful who think, perchance, this is their big day. There are those whom you know have worked hard all day, perhaps on a short-order counter, as their clothes still have the clinging odor of frying fat, rushing off to the downtown tables with the hope of doubling their daily intake.

There are no raised voices in the downtown city, only the hum of the wheels, the call of the croupier, the all-important jangle of the silver cartwheels. It's a magic city that never closes its eyes lest some prey escape its golden portals.

THE GEORGE CLARK home at 1525 Old House Rd. has been the scene of much social activity. Susan celebrated her 12th birthday with a slumber party and breakfast. Her guests included Linda Paquette, Kathy Penner, Janet Luwick, Janet Huber and Lauren Kenney.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark entertained at a dinner party last Saturday night. Their guests were Messrs. and Mesdames C. J. Schawl, Carl Mounter, Richard Penner, Ben Rogers, Arturo Gutierrez, William Freidrich, George Amthor and Ernest Maurin.

THE ALLYN BARBERS of 1876 Country Lane have been in a flurry of preparation in anticipation of a brief visit from their daughter and son-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. George Halperin. Lt. Halperin just finished his studies at Stanford and is being sent to Washington, D.C. They will be here only a few days on this visit.

MR. AND MRS. Glynn Lockwood of 3345 Trevan Rd. took a brief vacation down Pebble Beach way. They said the weather was absolutely perfect.

MR. AND MRS. Eugene Koch, 1225 Wynn Rd., had a big election buffet party last week. The vote counters included Messrs. and Mesdames John Chapman, Raymond C. Hurts, G. R. Goltz, Frank E. Clark, H. D. Wexelberg, John Hoffman, L. G. Farmer, Richard Penner, Jack Babick, Pete Mazzetti, and Dr. and Mrs. Duncan Rannie, Dr. and Mrs. Cleto Dorsey, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Mueller. Also, Messrs. and Mesdames Lawrence Melkie, Art Welsh, Ralph Paquette, Robert Grissle and Leon F. Begin.

MR. AND MRS. W. H. Dun-ning of 3323 Barhite spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Y. M. Posthuma on a trip to San Diego. They stayed at the Mission Valley Inn. While there they were able to take in the bull fights in Tijuana.

MR. AND MRS. W. R. Wil-liams of 2935 Linda Loa Lane became parents of their third son on May 20. They named the baby Jamison Webster. His weight was 8 pounds and 6 ounces. His brothers are Randy, 4½, and Scott, 3½.

KAREN ROBINSON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson of Mesita Rd., and Wendy Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner P. Wilson, gave a class party for the seventh grade girls at Westridge School. They started at the Robinsons swimming in the afternoon, and ended up at the Wilsons on Old House Rd. for dinner, music and games. They gave the party in two sections, half the class one day, and the other half the next.

The Wilsons' eldest daughter, Ann, gave a joint eighth

UP ON ...

Hastings Hill

Since the untimely birth and death of "The Snooper," many have been the requests for a column about friends and neighbors in Hastings Ranch, an informal kind of hodge podge, and so here with we do one for you.

LAS JARDINERAS, which means female gardeners, the members think, threw a luau for husbands Saturday night in the backyard of Ev and Kip Bowen on Kim Road, the "backyard" a very loose term, because their backyard does not look like ours or any other. A winding swimming pool, complete with Japanese bridge, and lush landscaping makes it a perfect setting for a luau or any other kind of party.

So while the Bowen and other neighborhood children peeked through the windows from inside to see just what their parents were up to, the female gardeners and spouses, doled up in what they hoped were appropriate costumes, ate catered Hawaiian food from ping pong tables gathered from around the neighborhood, danced, watched catered hula dancers, and laughed at each other's jokes.

Betty Hogoboom, happy to see the end of her job on the party committee, jumped, mumu and all, into the pool. Charlie Ayres joined her, so did Harry Masser, after first pushing wife Eleanor into the water.

Then there were new Hasty Hen president, Peggy Lansill, and Sue Cummins dancing their own private version of the Charleston. ... Bob Smallman, tending bar (he and Elaine also labored on the party committee) while she explained he'd worked hours that afternoon squeezing hundreds of Rangpur limes for the punch. ... Jeanne Lindman, slated to be new Las Jardineras president, looking pretty in red, and husband Ray telling about his "relaxing" vacation coming up this summer when he and his young daughters take a pack trip into the Montana mountains. ...

WITH LOTS of farewells and farewell parties under their belts to keep them until they got settled in San Diego, the Norm Shanks family left their Newhaven Road home in January. Well, as soon as they ran out of Hastings Ranch good will, grade graduation luncheon for her Westridge class with Kathy Snow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snow of Sierra Madre. They had luncheon at the Wilsons, and in the afternoon went swimming at the Shaws. There were 45 guests, including teachers.

School Transportation
Survey Being Studied

A Transportation Committee of citizens, headed by Ranch resident James N. Stivers, currently is studying and tabulating a survey made among parents to determine where school buses are necessary.

The committee undertook the task as an aid to the Board of Education in determining changes necessary in the transportation policy.

The present policy permits pupils in kindergarten through the third grade to be transported if they live beyond a three-quarter mile radius; junior high school pupils beyond a one and one-quarter mile radius; senior high school pupils beyond a two-mile radius. If the shortest traveled foot route exceeds one and one-half miles, two and one-quarter miles and two and three-quarter miles in the elementary, junior and senior high schools, respectively, transportation is now provided.

The questionnaire asks parents if they consider bus transportation necessary for their child; if he encounters any hazards on the way to school; what they consider a reasonable walking distance; if they think the present policy is adequate; if it should be more flexible, and would they be willing to engage public or private bus transportation on a cooperative effort.

Also the questionnaire asks if parents believe that bus transportation should be part of the school budget, as are school supplies, and if the tax rate should be increased in order to provide more transportation.

Under the present policy, the average cost per pupil transported amounted to approximately 40 cents per day, with the total of $138,267.84 spent for home to school transportation in 1956-57. Some $14,500 additional was spent for educational trips. Approximately 2,100 pupils were transported daily in 1956-57.

The committee estimates it would cost $1,800,000 per year to provide home to school transportation for all pupils except those in the junior college district.

The following are the kids who will run the student government of Wilson Junior High School next fall:

President, Wendy Finkendubber; vice president, Bill Dubberly; secretary, Kris Jones; safety, Jack Gregory; hospitality, Pam Munson; publications, Bonnie Reeve; entertainment, Barbara Kay; girls' activities, Susie Raymond; boys' activities, Bill Patterson; 10th grade counselor, Linda Spratt; 9th grade counselor, Jay Donohue; 8th grade counselor, Mike Nichols. Congratulations!

TUESDAY, JUNE 10, was a big day for all the 6th grades of Field, Willard, Hamilton, and Hale. For on this Tuesday they visited Wilson and were shown around the campus so as not to have to come in really cold next fall. They were shown where the rooms for the different types of classes are located. Welcome speeches were made, cheers were led by cheerleaders and pom-pom girls, and a talent show was put on by the present 7th graders.

All of us at Wilson hope they enjoyed their visit and even more than that hope that they enjoy their four-year stay at Wilson. (Three-year stay if the high school is built soon.)

TOMORROW NIGHT, Friday the 13th, the 10th graders at Wilson will be living it up at their senior party from 7-12 p.m. Dinner will be served from 7-8 and dancing, games, and concessions will take up the rest of the evening. The Blue Notes will furnish the music for dancing. The dress is dressy and it is hoped that the entire class will participate.

ACROSS the DESK

ideas from other editors

From the Canton Independent-Sentinel, Canton, Pa.: A group of leading business executives has launched a campaign to counteract what is called "recession fever." The businessmen believe that recession fever can grip those who have not been hurt financially and that fear of a recession can stop their purchases and make the recession much worse than it should be.

There is no question but that the future of our country, economically, is bright. We have an expanding population, an increasing number of families each year, and more jobs are averaged out over the long run. However, there is also no doubt that the present economy is suffering a recession, and there is no reason for anyone to hide that fact.

The recession should not induce those who are not hurt by it to curtail buying. On this count, the group of advertisers is performing a public service by urging people to continue their normal buying habits, or take advantage of bargains, and not be frightened into stapling their wallets closed.

We applaud the effort of the businessmen, both those connected with national concerns, and those locally, who are seeking to stimulate buying and lessen the effects of the recession. There is no necessity for the recession being any worse than it is, and a psychological factor is certainly involved in today's reduced buying.

From the South Pasadena Review, South Pasadena, Calif.: The Florida State Retailers Association is sponsoring an annual National Tax Freedom Holiday and is getting groups in other states to go along with it.

Annual Tax Freedom Day, explains the association, marks the day of the year when the average citizen has earned enough to pay his year's taxes and starts keeping his earnings. This year the date has been figured for May 13. The idea sounds great. A reminder to citizens that they have to work four full months and nearly half way into the fifth month just to pay taxes.

But have the boys thought this thing really through? The tax collector, his attention called to the fact that the citizen keeps seven and a half months of his earnings all to himself, may think he is cheated with only $4.50 out of every $12 of a man's money!

Remember the old sayings, boys! When you've got your head in the lion's mouth, don't wiggle it. Let sleeping tax collectors lie! Why tip 'em off?

Mt. Wilson Becomes Delight Of Tourists - 40,000 in Year

(This is the second of a series of articles on Mt. Wilson Trail, its history and on some of the incidents that made the trail famous. The third article will appear next week.)

By Bill Wark

Before the summer of 1864 was over the first Mt. Wilson Trail was finished and down it Benjamin Wilson's stepson, S. S. Hereford, brought the first pack train carrying lumber.

As the foothill towns grew in population and importance, there also grew a feeling for the mountains. Many enthusiastic hikers and campers were making their way to the top by the old Mt. Wilson Trail.

The original Halfway House was homesteaded by two colorful mountaineers, George Aiken and George Islip, after whom Mt. Islip by Crystal Lake is named. They planted the apple, cherry and plum trees there, and the area later became known as Orchard Camp.

George Islip operated the first commercial pack train along the trail. However their project was abandoned, Islip moved to the San Gabriel Canyon, and the land reverted to the government.

WITH THE ever increasing flow of hikers, crude resorts were starting along the trail to the summit. Pete Stiel and his wife started Stiel's Camp between Mt. Harvard and Mt. Wilson, and to them a daughter was born in 1888, the first American baby born in this part of the San Gabriels. They named her Alta Montana. Later this camp was owned and operated by C. S. Martin.

In 1889 the mountain top site of Don Benito's Camp was homesteaded by A. G. Strain who started Strain's Camp consisting of two log cabins, tents and a canvas covered dining room.

January 23 of that year, W. H. Pickering and Alvin G. Clark, a telescope builder, spent the night on Mt. Wilson, a decision was made and in three months enough equipment was packed up the trail to build the first telescope and dome.

C. S. Martin donated 40 acres for the purpose, and on April 7, 1892, the name was changed from Martin's Peak to Mt. Harvard, Professor Eliot of Harvard delivering a fitting address.

The 16-inch glass, duly erected, was placed under the management of a young astronomer who found he enjoyed the entrancing scenes of Los Angeles more than the stary heavens above Mt. Harvard. This resulted in many days of absence and often his daily record would show "Cloudy, no observations."

THIS SETTLED Mt. Harvard as an observatory, for so many cloudy days negated its astronomical virtues, and the glass was removed to Peru. Although this is supposed to be true, records show the site was abandoned for three reasons—difficulty in obtaining title to the land, shortage of water, and the large number of rattlesnakes that infested the area.

Again in 1903-04 the suitability of Mt. Wilson was tested, this time by Professor Hale, The Carnegie Institution of Washington, D.C., granted the funds, and the Pasadena Mt. Wilson Toll Road Company gave generously a long term lease on the mountain top.

As a result the Snow telescope was installed on Mt. Wilson. All the lumber and

Rudd Brown to Spotlight Differences

Rudd Brown of La Canada, victor in a three-way race for the Democratic nomination to Congress in the 21st district, voiced her gratitude and pointed to the basic contest in her forthcoming campaign for election against the Republican incumbent.

"I am grateful, gratified and proud," Mrs. Brown said, "to have been chosen by the Democratic voters as their candidate for the final election—I thank every supporter and voter for his help and confidence."

"In the coming months," she continued, "I will devote my efforts to emphasizing the differences in approach which my opponent and I take in treating the issues of concern to our district and our country. These are honest differences, often transcending partisanship and reflecting differing attitudes toward the demands of the times—and Republicans and Democrats alike should be made well aware of them before casting their final votes in November."

Mrs. Brown, 37, is the grand-daughter of William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state under President Woodrow Wilson and twice Democratic candidate for President, and the daughter of Ruth Bryan Owen Rhode, herself a congresswoman and minister to Denmark. She and her husband, Dr. Harrison Brown, Caltech geochimist and leading wartime nuclear scientist, have lived here since 1951.

Mrs. Brown was endorsed by the 21st District Democratic Council, and won the three-way race against William Stetham, Democrat, who ran two years ago as the Council's endorsed candidate, and Edgar W. Hiestand, cross-filed Republican incumbent, whom she now faces in the general election. Mrs. Brown did not cross-file on the Republican ticket.
